Faith Hope Consolo

Revered worldwide as the Queen of Retail, Faith Hope Consolo's prognostications on shopping and consumption are heeded by world-class designers, mass retailers, start-up boutiques, property owners and municipalities all around the world. Faith has her finger on the pulse of the retail scene in New York, and the world's greatest shopping centres and high streets.

Alistair Crane

Alistair Crane is Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of Hero, the industry-leading, mobile-first technology powering live shopping for retailers. Prior to Hero, Alistair launched Grapple as CEO and co-founder in 2009, and grew the business from a start-up to a success story, securing a successful exit in September 2013 to Monitise Plc. He joined Monitise as European President before progressing to Chief Sales Officer to run the US operation.

Georgia Fendley

Georgia Fendley has spent a career immersed in luxury brands as a designer, art director, brand strategist, branding agency owner, industry mentor and, of course, savvy consumer. As Brand Director of Mulberry (2008–2012), Georgia helped to steer the company through its greatest period of financial and geographical growth. She is now founder and Creative Director of Construct and co-founder of Hill & Friends.

Sir Eric Peacock

Leading companies since 2010, Sir Eric Peacock has wide-ranging experience in financial services, consumer goods and industry supply chain, and he is an active board member for numerous enterprises. Eric has grown, sold and acquired businesses, reflecting his deep-rooted interests in people development, culture and engagement.

Caroline Neville

Caroline Neville is the founder and Chairwoman of Neville McCarthy. She is a highly respected leader in the communications industry with more than 60 years' experience, and is also President of the UK beauty industry's leading business organisation, Cosmetic Executive Women (UK). Ms Neville is a Freeman of the City of London and a member of the Worshipful Company of Framework Knitters. Her experience covers dozens of marquee brands in fashion, travel, beauty, luxury goods and accessories.

Jonathan Siboni

Jonathan Siboni founded Luxurysight in 2010 as the first data intelligence platform focused on the luxury industry. Together with an advisory board from LVMH, Richemont, Hermès, Chanel and L'Oréal, among others, Luxurysight has developed unique technologies to provide brands with the world's largest data and insights platform on the luxury business.

Isabelle Aguerre

Isabelle Aguerre founded Lux in Vivo to advise luxury brands on client-centric transformation and sustain business long term. She has 15 years of experience as an international executive in luxury and fashion at Cartier, Balenciaga and Chanel. With her past strategy consulting and a Harvard MBA, she helps top management integrate a client vision and ecosystem into their overall strategy, in combination with brand DNA, digital and corporate social responsibility revolutions.

Keith Wilson

Keith Wilson is one of the founding directors of Wilson McHardy, a real-estate boutique agency providing investment, development and leasing advice to key clients in the luxury market. Responsible for many headline projects in London, Keith has provided strategic advice for the Grosvenor Estate, Dunhill, Chanel, Richemont and Groupe Arnault, among others.

NEW YORK NEWS: INTERACTIVE FOOD MUSEUMS BRING THE CROWDS

After debuting this spring in Santa Monica, California, the pop-up Candytopia is now at Penn Plaza, 145 West 32nd Street, for a limited engagement.

The Instagram-quasi-amusement-park walks you through Willy Wonka-like gates, and into a world where everything is made in sugar form. Highlights include a swimming pool filled with half a million giant marshmallows; confetti that bursts out of unicorn-pig hybrids; a candy-covered Sphinx sculpture; and sugar-spun recreations of artworks such as Vincent van Gogh's The Starry Night and Auguste Rodin's The Thinker. More exciting yummy places to pose include Jacques Torres Chocolate Choco-Story NY at 350 Hudson Street, The Egg House on the Lower East Side, 195 Chrystie Street, and the Museum of Pizza, which is coming this autumn to 718 Broadway in NoHo.
